

How to Register to Pigs Moodle and Self Enrol within Course

Introduction

This guide will show you how to create a new account using your personal email address and also how to self enrol within the Pig Reproduction course. Please note, you will need an active email account to register with Pigs Moodle.

Let's Register and Self Enrol within a Course

1. Create new account – Click on the 'Create new account' link.

The screenshot shows a registration form titled "Choose your username, which should be your email address and create a password". It contains several input fields and a "Create my new account" button. Numbered callouts (2-10) point to specific elements: 2 points to the "Username - your email address" field containing "email@hotmail.c"; 3 points to the "Password" field containing "mypassword" and the checked "Unmask" checkbox; 4 points to the "Email address" field containing "email@hotmail.com"; 5 points to the "Email (again)" field containing "email@hotmail.com"; 6 points to the "First name" field containing "Allan"; 7 points to the "Surname" field containing "Bell"; 8 points to the "City/town" field containing "Dumfries"; 9 points to the "Country" dropdown menu set to "United Kingdom"; and 10 points to the "Create my new account" button. A "Cancel" button is also visible next to the "Create my new account" button. A small box labeled "Fig 2.0" is in the top right corner of the form area.

10

2. Username – your email address – Type in your email address within the ‘Username – your email address’ field.
3. Password/Unmask – Click on the ‘Unmask’ tick box, this is so you can see exactly what you are type within the ‘Password’ field. Type in your password within the ‘Password’ field. Keep a note of your password as you will need it for logging into Pigs Moodle at a later date possibly.
4. Email address – Type in your email address. Use the exact email address you used within the ‘Username – your email address’ field above.
5. Email (again) – Type in the exact same email address you typed within the ‘Username – your email address’ and ‘Email address’ fields.
6. First name – Type in your first name.
7. Surname – Type in your Surname (last name).
8. City/town – Type in the location of your city or town.
9. Country – Leave as ‘United Kingdom’ within the ‘Country’ drop down menu.
10. Create my new account – Once you have filled all the fields out above, click on the ‘Create my new account’ button.

11. Continue – You will be presented with a message informing you that Pigs Moodle has sent you an email about completing your registration. Click on the 'Continue' button.
12. Your email account – The next step is to access your email account. The email you specified within the Pigs Moodle registration form.

13. Scottish Pig Academy: account confirmation – Once you have accessed your email account, look for the email titled 'Scottish Pig Academy: account confirmation'. If you do not see the email within your inbox, check your junk mail folder.

14. Web address – If the Web address link does not appear as a blue link, select all of the link then copy and paste the address into the address line at the top of your web browser window.

15. Courses – Once you have copied and pasted the Web link, you can continue to the Pig Reproduction course. Click on the 'Courses' button to continue.

16. Pig Reproduction – Click on the 'Pig Reproduction' link.

17. Enrol me – Finally, click on the 'Enrol me' button to self enrol within the Pig Reproduction course and enjoy.

NOTE: Please remember your Pigs Moodle username (your email address) and password for the next time you need to login to Pigs Moodle.

You can use the  Moodle login guide on the Pigs Moodle homepage.